Summer Intern at Southwest Nebraska Public Health Department

McCook – Henry Miller of Crofton, Nebraska is working as a summer intern for Southwest Nebraska Public Health Department (SWNPHD). Henry is a senior at Wayne State College majoring in Speech Communications/Sociology.

“We are so pleased to have Henry join us for some valuable public health experiences,” explains Myra Stoney, Director SWNPHD. “Our staff was impressed with our intern’s abilities and eagerness to learn.”

“My college advisor recommended that I increase my understanding of public health as I pursue a graduate degree,” states Miller. “This internship has given me many insights to the different areas covered through public health.”

Staff members: Myra Stoney, Director, Public Health Pete, Melissa Propp and Joy Trail with Henry Miller.

Through his internship, Miller participated in a rabies investigation, environmental health surveys, planning an emergency preparedness project for National Preparedness Month, performed radio interviews, assisted with health assessments, decon training, surveillance studies, and webpage design.

Miller has plans to apply for graduate school and travelling abroad.
